

CONFIDENTIALITY TERMS

For the interpretation of the present document, the expression “Confidential Information” refers to any information published on the webpage you are visiting, and that is the property of INORCA SAS.

The visitor of this webpage agrees with strict confidentiality to all information received or accessed from INORCA and will not reveal to any third party. The visitor will commit to protect the information as if it were its own and avoid unauthorized disclosure.

The visitor will have access to Confidential Information related to products, designs, engineering, inventions, innovations, and any general information, which is the intellectual property of INORCA. The revelation of this information (confidential or not) does not give or express implicitly, authorization or permission for licensing brands, patents, copyrights, or any other intellectual property rights.

The visitor of this webpage acknowledges that it does not have any proprietary rights or license related to the confidential information. The visitor agrees that once the website has been seen, no digital copies will be made.

The receiver of the privileged information declares upon reading this document; that Confidential Information has been received during the website’s visit, and it will be used only for commercial purposes.

INORCA SAS